

SUMMARY

Gulin K.A.

CONCEPTION OF LONG-TERM SOCIAL AND ECONOMIC DEVELOPMENT («RUSSIA-2020»): CHALLENGES FOR REGIONS

The paper examines some items of Conception of long-term social and economic development of the Russian Federation for the period up to 2020. It analyzes changes in federal districts and selected regions of Russia from 2002 till 2007 and draws the conclusion concerning the regional possibilities to hit the key targets mentioned in the Conception.

Key words. Social and economic development, long-term strategy, conception, key targets, region.

Uskova T.V.

LABOR PRODUCTIVITY GROWTH AS THE STRATEGIC GOAL OF THE REGION

The article covers the state and the problems of labor productivity growth in the North-West regions. The reasons of its low growth rates are defined. The article shows that the level of labor productivity is higher in the regions with high industrial specific weigh. The ways of the given problems solution are proposed.

Key words. Labor productivity in the regions, gross regional product growth rates, labor productivity in industry, productivity growth factors and reserves.

Kalinina A.A., Lukanicheva V.P.

TECHNOLOGICAL INNOVATIONS AS A NECESSARY CONDITION OF LABOR PRODUCTIVITY GROWTH IN THE PECHORA COAL FIELD

The article analyses labor productivity growth peculiarities in the Pechora coal field in three periods: Restructuring of coal production, technical re-equipment of perspective mines activation and grounds for main directions of «leveling» technological innovations defining labor productivity growth in perspective.

Key words. Komi Republic, coal industry, labor productivity, technological innovations.

Vasilyev A.M.

LABOR PRODUCTIVITY GROWTH FACTORS IN THE MURMANSK REGION'S FISHING

Data on labor productivity in the fisheries of the Murmansk region and Norway and their dependency on various factors are given. Recommendations for achievement of labour productivity growth not less than 4 times are suggested.

Key words. Labor productivity the fishery, growth factors.

Ivanov V.A., Terentiev V.V.

MAIN DIRECTIONS OF INCREASING IN LABOR PRODUCTIVITY IN THE AGRICULTURAL SECTOR OF KOMI REPUBLIC

The increase in the rate of production of agricultural products, the overcoming of deficit of food products, the competitive recovery of agrarian production are inseparably connected with the problem of increase in labor productivity. The analysis of the working efficiency in the agriculture of the North-East of European territory of Russia before 1990 s was made in the article, the influence of the agrarian reform on dynamics of labor productivity in Komi Republic, main directions of increasing in labor productivity in the agricultural sector of Komi Republic were described.

Key words. Labor productivity, analysis, directions of increasing, Komi Republic.

Shabunova A.A., Kalashnikov K.N.

ECONOMIC EVALUATION OF VITAL POTENTIAL LOSSES IN THE VOLOGDA REGION

The publication is devoted to the problem of untimely population mortality as a factor interfering with labor productivity growth and country's economic development. The article analyses the condition of the able-bodied population's mortality in the Russian Federation compared with the other countries of the world. It also gives the evaluation of demographic and economic losses caused by population mortality in able-bodied age on the materials of the Vologda region.

Key words. Untimely mortality, lost years of work capacity, economic damage.

Didyk V.V.

Human resources condition as a factor of social labor productivity formation in the region

Factors of labour productivity, which are laid in the sphere of direct or indirect influence of regional state authorities, are considered. Results of the analysis carried out in the course of elaboration of the Strategy of socio-economic development of the Murmansk region to the year of 2025, which the author took participation in, are given.

Key words. Human potential, human resources, labor productivity.

Fauser V.V.

Branch features of professional development of human resources of the organizations of Republic Komi

In the article, on the basis of results of sociological survey of experts are considered branch features of professional development of human resources of the organizations of Republic Komi; are discussed features of improvement of professional skill at the enterprises having different organizational, legal and ownership forms, an economic situation; is shown the interrelation between an education system and efficiency of work. It is noticed that in different branches the system of development of the personnel has the features: from presence of the strategic plan to incidentally works.

Key words. Republic Komi, human resources, organizations, improvement of professional skill, an education system, labor productivity.

Leonidova G.V.

Actual problems of human potential formation in innovation economics

In the article deals with the problems of personnel training in the region of Vologda and its correspondence to the tasks of innovation development. There is a conclusion about the needs for transition to the mechanism of the talents youth selection and creation of such educational system, in which a student would be included in the process of specialty's mastery since his school-days, moving subsequently through the organizational triad: school – Institute of Higher Education – postgraduate study.

Key words. Personnel training, highly skilled specialists, education quality, peopleware.

Efremov K.I.

Main tendencies in external economic relations of the Vologda region and Belarus Republic

The article presents the data about economic relations between the Vologda region and Belarus Republic in recent years, the possibilities of their following development are considered.

Key words. External economic relations of the Vologda region and Belarus Republic, production and services export and import dynamics and structure, commercial exchange effectiveness.

Karavaev Yu.V., Slobodskoy G.V.

Some aspects of software products implementation

The article covers the main aspects of software products implementation. The advantages and problems of free software are analyzed.

Key words. Free software, operating systems safety, software licensing.